

Brilliant Kids NYC Teachers

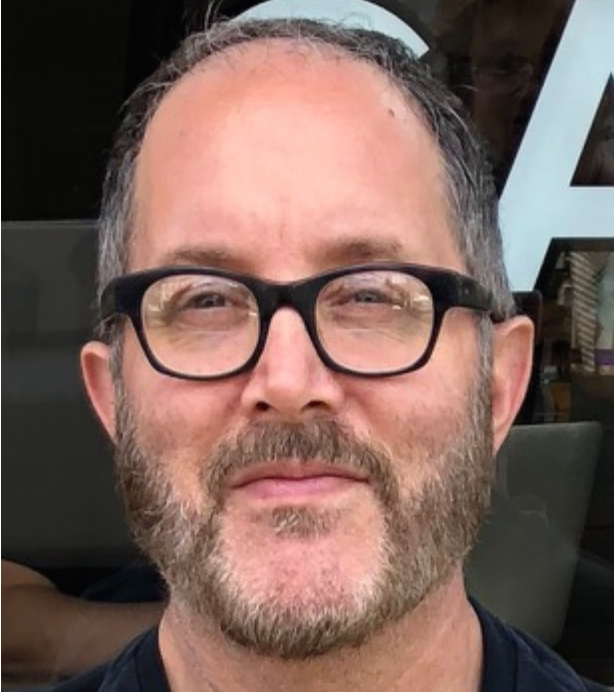

Dr. Rose Reissman, is a veteran teacher educator who has engaged students, families, teachers and community in literacy enchantment and cognitive development. From early childhood, Dr. Rose has been a storyteller, an actress and an author. Her articles and books have been published by PENGUIN, ASCD, INFOAGE, CORWIN, ISTE and NCTE. She has an outstanding experience in SSAT Prep, Gifted and Talented Test Prep and a deep knowledge of Stanford-Binet Intelligence Scale. Dr. Rose is an early childhood expert who has never grown up and never will.

Nicole Lewin, MA, is a music- and expressive arts therapist, singer and voice-trainer from Berlin, Germany. Mrs. Lewin accomplished her Master of Arts in Expressive Arts Therapy in Switzerland at the European Graduate School

For over a decade she wholeheartedly has been pursuing her career as a teacher and therapist mainly for children in elementary schools, cultural centers, and individually. These programs addressed the needs and interest of the students within the given frame of cultural diversity. Mrs. Lewin teaches at the Harrison Music school, works for MidAmerica Productions, and is proud being a Gifted and Talented Test Prep teacher for the Brilliant Kids NYC. As a mom herself and through her solid gained experience in the classroom, she understands how important it is to connect to emotions and individual paces of children. Through play she tries to create a safe space that each child's voice gets heard and can explore confidently in a group context. She is always impressed by each child and how they live in the moment.

Jack Wernick, MS.Ed, works with children for years as a middle school ELA teacher at Horace Mann School and as a tutor for all the ages, including preschool kids. Mr. Wernick manages his own tutoring business specializing in test prep and homework help, including Gifted and Talented Test Prep. He studied Theatre Intensive in Regents College, London, UK, and completed graduate level coursework in English and Education in New York.

Mr. Wernick is a published writer and editor.
